OCEAN RATES TO BE RAISED AS RESULT OF TRADEPICK-UP

Business Better, Carriers See Chance To Gain

GO UP ON APRIL 1

Conference Conditions To Prevail, With Exceptions

BY DAVID ARAKIE
(Financial Editor)

Effective from April 1 the freight rates to New York from Shanghai will be increased. Shipping has been picking up during the past few months and the Shanghai-New York Conference has decided to raise their rates on vessels calling at New York, North Atlantic and Gulf ports via the Suez Canal or the Cape of Good Hope. The New York Freight Bureau have already intimated to the merchants that the new tariff would come into operation on April 1. There have been fair increases in almost all along the line.

In some articles there have been no increase while in others quite big ones, the idea being to bring all freight rates into line with New York.

The shipping companies complain that the cost of running vessels has increased very much, the trade depression at the same time hitting them very badly. Trade between China and New York and East Coast ports has been picking up since the past six months, and outward vessels have been getting good cargo and experiencing little difficulty in filling up their space. The depression of the year-and-a-half which hung over the shipping industry is steadily lifting, and the Conference Line has therefore taken advantage of the fact and put up the rates.

To New York and East Coast ports there is present a steady movement of silk, hides, wool, muskins, kid skins, peanuts, wood oil, strawbraids, sesamum seeds, peanut oil and walnuts (to the West Coast as well). To cite the case of a single steamship company, the Admiral Line, the last five passenger ships of this company were fully loaded in Shanghai and Japanese ports.

RATE WAR

The freight rates declined rapidly after the War until in 1921 things became so bad that a number of the Conference Line vessels fell out and a regular rate war began to be waged, the steamship companies fighting strenuously for whatever cargo that was offering at cut-throat rates. In the face of this internecine warfare among the steamship companies the Conference was naturally dissolved, but when things began to settle down and the outlook commenced to wear a better hue the owners got together and brought again into existence the Conference. Today almost all the companies are in this Conference and rates are faithfully adhered to. Now and again a tramp vessel that calls at Shanghai offers merchants better terms than the Conference Line companies can give and thus secures cargo, but tramp vessels are a small factor in the present situation.

SHANGHAI-NEW YORK RUN

While things are pretty well under control on the Shanghai-New York run the same cannot be said of the New York-Far Eastern steamship freight conference. Almost at the same time as the Far East-New York Steamship Conference decided to increase their freight rates the New York-Far East Conference did the same, but while the former has succeeded—at least we have no doubt that the rates will be faithfully observed both in the letter and spirit—the latter's effort has been baulked (temporarily we hope) for its new rates which were to come into operation on April 1 next, will not be effective till July 1. This postponement has been due to the fact that there is a tendency at present for Japanese and other non-American tramp steamers and non-Conference lines to cut rates ruthlessly on the same service. The rates from New York have been low and it is with the idea of bringing these more into line with

SLEVIN IS ACQUITTED OF IMPORTING WARMATERIAL

Lobingier Frees Accused In Hankow Airplane Seizure Case

NOT WAR PLANES

Nullifies Consular Court's Injunction Prohibiting Delivery

Mr. James Slevin was acquitted of charges of exporting war munitions from the United States and importing them into China in a decision handed down yesterday by Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier in the United States Court for China.

The case originated in the Consular Court at Hankow following the arrest of Mr. Slevin and the seizure there of six Curtiss airplanes by a detachment from the U. S. S. Isabel, flagship of the American Yangtsze patrol. Mr. Slevin was given a preliminary hearing in the Consular Court and held for the United States Court. The case has occupied three sessions of the Court. Mr. Slevin was represented by Mr. F. J. Schuhl, and was prosecuted by Acting District Attorney C. P. Holcomb.

In the course of his decision Judge Lobingier defines the term 'exportation' as related to the law invoked in Mr. Slevin's case and raises the question of whether shipment of the areoplanes from Shanghai to Hankow came within the meaning of the law.

The ruling points out also that many articles of commerce might be used for military purposes emphasising that no testimony was presented at the trial of the case showing that the planes involved were to be used or could be used for military purposes. The text of the decision is as follows:

TEXT OF RULING

The defendant is charged with "exportation of munitions of war to China in that the said defendant, James Slevin, on various days during the months of June, July, August, September, October, November and December, 1922 at one or more of the following cities in the Republic of China, namely, Foochow, Shanghai, Peking and Hankow, and within the jurisdiction of this Court, did aid and abet in the exportation from the United States and in the importation into China of six Curtiss aeroplanes, munitions of war, contrary to the form, force and effect of the Statute."

It appears that the "statute" referred to in the information from which the foregoing is quoted is a Joint Resolution of Congress, the first section of which reads as follows:

"That whenever the President finds that in any American country, or in any country in which the United States exercises extraterritorial jurisdiction, conditions of domestic violence exist which are or may be promoted by the use of arms or munitions of war procured from the United States, and makes proclamation thereof, it shall be unlawful to export, except under such limitations and exceptions as the President prescribes, any arms or munitions of war from any place in the United States to such country until otherwise ordered by the President or by Congress."

It appears that on June 1, 1922 the defendants "on behalf of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation" of New York entered into a written contract with a Chinese concern known as the "Foochow Motor Car Company," for the sale of "6 (six) aeroplanes, Curtiss model JN4D2" for the sum of $25,000 United States currency. The document was executed before the American Consul at Foochow and recites that

"with the permission of the Chinese Government it (the purchaser) is about to start aeroplane transportation routes in Fukien Province, Republic of China, for mail, parcels and less bulky packages on which a high tariff may be paid, and for passenger service, and is desirous of purchasing aeroplanes for said purpose and hereby personally guarantees and makes it a part of this Sales Agreement that it intends to make use of said aeroplanes for purposes as above stated and for

MRS. KITTY REN'S DISFIGUREMENT SUIT IS STARTED

Shampoo Grayed Hair, She Asks Tls. 20,000 Damages

Alleging that a bottle of shampoo which she purchased from the American Drug Company caused her hair to turn gray, Mrs. Kitty Ren, through her attorney, Mr. F. J. Schuhl, yesterday brought suit against the drug firm in the United States Court for China before Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier for Tls. 20,000 damages.

Mr. Roland S. Haskell of Haskell and Moss appeared for the American Drug Company.

Mr. Schuhl, in outlining the case, said that Mrs. Ren purchased a bottle of shampoo known as 'American Drug Company Shampoo' at the American Drug Company in June, 1922, and that immediately after she had used it her hair turned gray and her scalp became so that she could not comb her hair for almost three months.

The first witness called was Mr. G. H. Wilhelm, formerly with the American Drug Company, but now organising his own firm. Mr. Wilhelm testified that he was employed by the drug firm from August 1, 1921, until July 22, 1922. During that time, he said, he had seen Mrs. Ren in the store and knew that she had purchased a bottle of shampoo.

MADE COMPLAINT

In answer to questions by Mr. Schuhl he said that he knew Mrs. Ren had made a complaint about the shampoo and that two other complaints had also been made. After the complaints had been made the bottle was returned to the factory, he said, and an analysis made which showed that the shampoo contained an excess of alkali. The shampoo, he said, was not old stock because the shampoo was made up in small quantities at the factory.

Mr. Schuhl then produced a letter written by the American Drug Company to Mrs. Ren in which it was stated that all stocks of the shampoo in Shanghai had been withdrawn and they would do their best to help Mrs. Ren.

Mr. Haskell, in his cross-examination, asked the witness if he was asked to terminate his services with the Company.

Mr. Wilhelm said that he left their service with mutual consent. He added that Mrs. Ren came very often to the store, and about two or three times she spoke to the witness about the shampoo. The stock was taken from the retail department. After Mrs. Ren brought the bottle back all the stock of shampoo was taken from the store, but it was replaced the next day. The stock that came back proved to be all right. It was ordered by Mr. Hensler, who at that time was general manager.

TWO OTHERS

Mr. Wilhelm added that the other two complaints were made previous to that of Mrs. Ren, by Mrs. C. H. Green and the wife of

RADIOPHONE SETS RECORD; JAPANESE "LISTEN IN"

Mrs. Jones Sings, Parisien Violinist Plays, Tonight

Radio Program Tonight

The program to be broadcasted tonight from XRO, the radio telephone station operated by the Radio Corporation of China and THE CHINA PRESS, will be as follows:

8 p.m. 'Tuning in' phonograph selections.

8:15 Two violin solos by Mr. Alexander, violinist at the Parisien, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Harry Kerry.

8:30 Vocal solo, "For All Eternity," by Mr. Frank Jones, soprano soloist at St. Joseph's Convent, accompanied on the piano by Miss P. Berthet.

8:40 Vocal solo by Mrs. Jones, "Asthore," (Irish song), accompanied by Miss Berthet.

8:50 Late news bulletins.

9 p.m. Phonograph selections.

Limited facilities for 'listening in' are available to those interested in radio broadcasting. Requests may be made to The Radio Editor, THE CHINA PRESS together with your telephone number.

Another long distance record for the radio in China was broken last night when the wireless operators on the Admiral liner President Jefferson, who attended last night's concert at the broadcasting station at 3 Canton Road, reported that they had heard a wireless station in Northern Japan signal that they had received at least a part of XRO's program.

The Japanese station is nameless as all the signals were not received but the report, meager as it is, is encouraging as it is the first time reports have been received from such a great distance. Mr. E. G Osborn of the Radio Corporation was extremely pleased with the report and predicted confidently that it would be only a question of a short time now until long distance wireless communication would be as common as radio communication is within the Settlement now.

The nameless Japanese station's report concerned the musical numbers given last night by Mr. Warren Tehaney and Mr. Med. Anderson, singers from the Carlton, who were accompanied by Mr. Ray Lenzen, and Mr. P. Palmer, violinist, and Mr. F. Martinez, pianist, of the Del Monte Orchestra.

SONG BIRDS WARBLE

Mr. Tehaney, he of the silver-tenor voice who sings nightly at the New Carlton with the Golden Gate Quartette, sang two solos that scored heavily with the increasing battalions of 'listeners in.' Mr. Tehaney's first song was "I Love You Because You're You," and his second, "My Buddy." Both were transmitted perfectly.

Mr. Anderson, the Golden Gate yodelers' dynamic bass sang "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," and "When The Lighthouse Bells Ring Ding, Dong." The second song was especially appropriate to Mr. Anderson's heavy voice, with the booming of seas an easy flight of the imagination.

Mr. Ray Lenzen, indirect descendant of the man that invented the piano, accompanied both Mr. Tehaney and Mr. Anderson. Mr. Lenzen has played several times previously but the radio fans, seemingly, can't get enough of his playing. Amateurs are repeatedly asking when Lenzen plays again.

"THE BEST YET"

When Mr. P. Palmer, violinist at the Del Monte, finished his first violin solo last night Mr. Cave of the Marconi Company telephoned to express his applause and declared that it was the best thing of the numerous good things that he had ever heard over the radio.

Mr. Palmer encored with "Thais" which he rendered in the same artistic manner, ably assisted by Mr. F. Martinez, the leader and pianist with the Del Monte players.

GARAGE MEN FINED $1,100 IN ARMS CASE

Mixed Court Delivers Judgment In Fei Lung Affair

Fines aggregating $1,100 were imposed yesterday upon Tsung Ah-kung and Tsung Nyui-tsang, proprietor of the Fei Lung Garage and his brother, as a consequence of the charges of storing arms and being in possession of opium recently preferred by the police.

The case was heard by Assessor Allman and Magistrate Kwan and the defendants were represented by Messrs. Faison, Snyder, Franklin and Fischer, while the prosecution was conducted by Mr. Eardley Maitland, assisted by Mr. R. C. Faithfull.

The defendants were charged on eight counts of traffic violation and were fined $800 on these charges. The manager of the garage was fined an additional $150 on the charge of storing arms and a $150 fine was imposed on his brother for having opium and opium smoking instruments in his possession. The weapons and opium paraphernalia seized by the police were ordered confiscated.

It was alleged during the hearing of the case that the defendants were engaged in wholesale traffic in arms, an unsigned contract for 20,000 German Mauser rifles being produced as evidence. This charge, however, was not substantiated.

Ministers Demand That Faith Be Kept On Boxer Indemnity

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 13.—General Chang Shou-tseng, Mr. Liu En-yuan and the Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs attended the special meeting of the House of Representatives this afternoon with reference to the payment of the French part of the Boxer Indemnity, which the House urged should be paid in paper and not in gold francs.

The Premier explained that it was settled by the previous Cabinet that the payment should be in gold francs and that the refloating of the Banque Industrielle de Chine was bound up with it. The Government could not miss this favorable opportunity.

The other Ministers spoke in a similar manner.

Many Members asked questions, indicating that the reply was not satisfactory. Finally, the House passed a resolution asking the Government for further information.

ELMONT CLAIMS RESPONSIBILITY FOR WIFE'S DEBTS

Makes Unique Plea When Sued For Hospital Bill

A husband made the unique plea that he, and not his wife, was responsible for his wife's debts before Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier in the United States Court for China yesterday.

The husband who made the epochal plea was Mr. Jay Elmont. The wife is the owner of a boarding house in Quinsan Gardens. And the debt was for a hospital bill contracted by Mrs. Elmont at the Victoria Nursing Home while ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmont, through their attorney, Mr. Faison of Williams, Franklin and Faison, admitted the debt of Tls. 762.70, being the balance due the Shanghai Municipal Council on Mrs. Elmont's hospital bill, but denied that Mrs. Elmont was liable, as under the laws of the District of Columbia and Alaska, which prevail in this jurisdiction, the husband is liable for the debts of his wife. There is provision, Mr. Faison contended, that in cases where the wife has a separate estate she is not liable for her husband's debts.

The contention before Judge Lobingier therefore was that Mr. Elmont was responsible for his wife debts and she could not be sued.

Mr. Faison explained that Mrs. Elmont was an invalid, struggling to make a living, and was compelled to seek the protection of the law to the last letter to keep from being put out into the street.

Public Prosecutor Maitland, who appeared for the Council, asserted that in a case where a wife had a separate estate, as in this case, it was entirely in order for the plaintiff to pray for judgment against the wife irrespective of her husband's circumstances.

The case was adjourned pending the return of Judge Lobingier from Canton.

Tokio, Feb. 13.—A Moscow despatch dated February 11 states that the Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Moscow Government has issued a notification to the effect that all Japanese men-of-war, which are to arrive at or sail from ports on the Pacific coast within the domain of Russia in future shall receive permission from the Russian Government.

SUN YIELDS TO PLEAS TO TAKE HOLD IN CANTON AGAIN

Will Leave Here On The Jefferson Tomorrow

PARTY WITH HIM

Will Not Try To Reorganise Old Government

It was announced yesterday that Dr. Sun Yat-sen, accompanied by a group of members of the Koumintang will sail for Canton on the steamer President Jefferson of the Admiral Line leaving at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The action of the Southern leader is in response to numerous requests that have been addressed to him by various conflicting interests at Canton where administrative and commercial conditions have been thrown into disorder by the recent coup of the Kwangsi forces.

It has not been disclosed how long Doctor Sun intends to remain in the South, but it is known that he has no intention of making any effort to reorganise a Southern Government of the kind he formerly headed there.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Feb. 12.—Skirmishes occurred yesterday and today between Yunnanese and Kwangsi detachments in the east of the city around the Yunnanese headquarters. The citizens fear that this may be the beginning of inter-factional warfare.

Mr. Hu Han-min, the Civil-Governor, has returned to Canton but the situation has not improved, intrigues being still in progress among the non-Cantonese parties.

The fighting has greatly interfered with trade at the end of the year. The merchants are complaining but, in spite of the hardships under which they are suffering, the Commissioner of Finance is demanding that the General Chamber of Commerce shall urge merchants to pay taxes in advance.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 9.—It is semi-officially stated that the Tuchun of Chekiang has telegraphed to the Government suggesting that Admiral Sah Chen-ping be appointed Civil Governor of Fukien and that there is no necessity for the post of Tuli of Military Affairs.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 10.—Canton news is to the effect that General Shen Hung-ying is still adopting a waiting attitude. The expected assistance from General Wu Pei-fu has apparently not reached him, and consequently he is willing to temporise with Dr. Sun Yat-sen. From Swatow it is reported that General Li Lieh-chun is planning to recover Canton for the Kuomingtang by dividing his forces into three and moving into Kwangtung. Much of course depends on the success or otherwise of General Hsu's invasion launched from Foochow.

SUNG CHUAN-FANG ARMY WILL ENTER FUKIEN PROVINCE

First Division To Be Marched Into Southern Province Is Latest Report

It was learned yesterday from reliable sources that despite the protest of the public bodies, General Sung Chuan-fang has been instructed by Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu to proceed to Fukien with his first division of troops. They maintain that the action would be in accordance with the orders of the Central Government to co-operate with Admiral Liu Kwan-hsiun in the work of reorganisation of the province, and hold that Sung cannot accomplish anything by way of settling the Fukien situation unless accompanied by strong forces.

However, Premier Chang Shou-tseng, it is understood, considers this action as conducive of further military clashes in Fukien and detrimental to the general peace of the province, so he is still holding out against the plan.

A Sermon By Wireless

"Christ And The Lord's Prayer"

By Rev. A. N. Rowland

The following sermon was preached in the broadcasting station operated by THE CHINA PRESS and the Radio Corporation of China on the roof of the Dollar building by the Rev. A. N. Rowland, pastor of the Union Church on last Sunday evening in connection with the Union Church's radio services:

"And it came to pass, as Jesus was praying in a certain place, that when he ceased one of his disciples said unto him: 'Lord teach us to pray', and He said unto them, 'When ye pray say 'Our Father.'"

So Jesus did not teach this prayer until the disciples asked for it. It was his wisdom as a teacher that he waited upon their receptivity. For it takes two to make a lesson, as it takes two to make a quarrel. It is not enough to have one who can impart unless he is in touch with one who is prepared to receive. Teaching cannot go ahead of learning. For we can only enjoy what we are ripe for, we can only take advantage of that for which we are ready.

A book was written a few years ago to illustrate this very point. It was called 'Father and Son' and it was a description by Edmund Gosse of the wrong way in which his father had trained him, pushing his favorite religious doctrines on him before he could digest them. Boyhood has to learn first to ask its own questions; only then can it be taught answers. We must not expect young people to profess that which has not yet entered into their experience. or as Hy Drummond once put it, to have the religion of their grandmothers.

It is only in matters of kindness that we may outrun another's receptivity, never in matters of teaching. So the Lord's prayer was not given to the disciples until they had felt the need of it and said, "Lord teach us to pray."

But this does not mean that we are to leave younger minds to their own devices as Bernard Shaw, Montessori and many others have proposed. We have a serious business in the next generation in being responsible for some of the questions they ask.

In that story it is evident that the disciples were moved to make their appeal because of something they had seen with wonder and admiration in the example of their Lord. They had seen the effect of prayer upon him, what it meant in terms of calmness, courage, patience and joy. That was what spurred them to say, "Lord teach us to pray!" Christ was a revelation to them of what real prayer meant, and they coveted his gift. Their question arose from the challenge and rebuke of his daily life. They became ripe for his teaching because of his presence and influence.

That shows us our part in religious education. It is not to push our conviction onto younger minds, but so to live that they may want to have convictions of their own. Why is it that children and younger people are not wanting to ask us the ways of the Christian life? Why are they not curious about the secrets of our faith? Why are they not eager to know the terms of citizenship in Heaven? Is it because we have not put the good things before them? If only they saw people of the highway of God, like the procession of silhouettes by Isaiah, singing as they marched, crowned, as it were, with everlasting joy, they would be quick enough in questions of how and where to join them.

The Book of Acts tells us plainly how early the church won this questioning mood. And it may well be that the reticence and apparent indifference of multitudes today is our condemnation, because our goodness is not sufficiently evident or radiant.

Here are two points then for us to consider as to the origin of the Lord's Prayer: first, that it was not given until the disciples asked for it, and secondly, that the disciples were moved to ask for it because of what they saw and felt in the Lord. The prayer itself I won't begin to analyse. I only want to linger on the first word before I have done because the word 'Our' gives the distinctive mark to the prayer and makes it characteristically Christian.

The purpose of Christ's coming was to discover and declare the ground of unity between man and man as well as between man and God. And our prayers are in so far as we associate others with ourselves. The prayer of the Pharisee was condemned because he stood aloof even in the sanctuary and thanked God he was not like other men. True prayer brings us into the Divine Presence and makes us know we are like other men in our essential needs and natures.

I wonder when the Christians will understand that the Lord's Prayer was not intended to be merely mumbled or monotoned again and again. It is a great instrument for bringing about that unity of mankind for which Christ gave his life. Look at it for a moment or rather at the second part. Three filial petitions are followed by three fraternal petitions—Give us .... our .... forgive us our ....and lead us not .... These are all social prayers and are meant to carry the mind and consecrate the will to three great social ideals—Justice, Peace and Service.

"Give us this day our daily bread," is an appeal for Justice. It forbids us to think of our selfish requirements. Our sense of need is translated by the spirit of the needs of others. It is a plea in the name of Justice against partiality and privilege.

"Forgive us our trespasses,"—that is a prayer which will work for peace if it is sincere, for we are asking the Divine reconciliation as the crown of our own willingness to be reconciled. This prayer is a falsehood if we persist in our grudges and cherish our own grievances. This cry for Divine forgiveness commits us to a policy of reconciliation in all the fields of social life which shall be at last gathered up in peace.

"Lead us not into temptation,"—this prayer is only sound if it is not selfish. It is not enough for us to dread trial and temptation for ourselves. We must have a conscience for others—for women whose scanty earnings leave them unprotected, for men whose lack of work makes them sour with the ferment of revolution.

So you see this third prayer, sincerely uttered, commits us to some responsibility for social service, some path of interest and labor on behalf of others.

Justice, Peace and Social Service:

After this manner: Pray ye, not as a matter of words but as an acceptance of the spirit and standpoint of Christ who makes the word Our the keynote of your social life and the clue to our social problems. "Lord teach us so to pray." We have repeated this prayer how many times? We admire its comprehensiveness in such few words. We realise it is the standard of only prayers that are sure to be answered. We enjoy the thought that by means of it we are linked to Christ in every land, of every age, back to the people who warked with Christ.

But how many of us are willing to be taught how to pray. It is like the sword 'excalibur,' the admiration of many, but the weapon of few. Or it is like some new delicate instrument of science that many touch with a hand of interest but few can handle with real understanding as a means of power.

It is enough to know that the prayer for all its popular uses, is really the expression of the inner life of a true Christian. It contains the whole philosophy of Christian life. And if we have been persuaded by the love of Christ or the truth that is in Him to come over to His side, we can get the whole lesson of discipleship by learning by His grace how to pray this prayer:

"Lord we do desire to share with Thee the priviledge of working for the unity of mankind in God. Teach us how to steep our thoughts and baptize our ambitions in Thy prayer."

Radiophone Sets Record

It was Mr. Palmer's and Mr. Martinez' second appearance before the wireless transmitter and both displayed an especially good "radio technique."

Prof. Robertson of the Y.M.C.A., Mr. A. A. Kees of the American School, and Mr. William Lockwood also called up the broadcasting station last night to inform Mr. Osborn that the modulation last night was excellent and that the ether waves had transmitted the program in an especially fine manner.

A TREAT TONIGHT

Tonight's program, which starts as usual at 8 o'clock will also contain two distinctive numbers. Mrs. Frank Jones, soprano soloist at St. Joseph's Convent, will sing two vocal solos, "For All Eternity," (Mascheroni) and an Irish song, "Asthore." Miss P. Berthet will accompany Mrs. Jones on the piano in both songs.

Two violin solos will be played on tonight's program by Mr. Alexander, the violinist with the Parisien Orchestra accompanied by Mr. Harry Kerry on the piano. Mr. Alexander's ability is well known by the dance-lovers who trip the light fantastic nightly at the Paricien and also by the radio fortunates as he has played at previous radio concerts. Mr. Kerry's particular facility on the ivories is too well known in Shanghai to need comment.

THE CHINA PRESS will, as usual, broadcast the latest news bulletins in connection with the program.

Anti-Japanese Outbreak, Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb 13.—A serious anti-Japanese disturbance is reported from Tsingtao. It appears that on February 11, a Chinese ex-brigand, now a gendarme, was accused of pocket-picking at a Japanese auction. While the Japanese police sergeant and Chinese police were discussing the case 30 ex-brigands who were recently enrolled in the gendarmerie drove up in two cars to assist their comrade, destroyed some furniture and hauled off several Japanese to the police-station after severely handling them.

The Japanese were afterwards released but four of them, including the sergeant, were taken to hospital, being somewhat seriously injured.

The Japanese community are very indignant and are holding demonstrations and have protested to their Consul.

one of the employes of the Company.

Witness answered in reply to the question by Mr. Haskell that he had no chance to see the lady's hair. He also stated that it was natural for him to see the result of the medicine, but the lady was turned over to Mr. Hensler. He heard Mr. Hensler remark that it was a small matter. The stock was new. The shampoo sold is sold very fast so that the Company made it very frequently. He knew this because a few times the store was out of stock. He knew that he would know if the stock would come from outports.

Mr. Schuhl asked permission to question the witness again, which was granted.

The shampoo was made at different times? Yes.

Could you tell me who was Mr. E. W. Miller? He was our retail manager. He directed the making of certain preparations of the company. He was in the factory line. He was making some preparations for the retail department.

He made an analysis of the contents of the bottle Mrs. Ren brought back? No, I did not see him making it, but he told me himself about it. He told me that the preparation was excessively alkaline. He also told me that the contents of the bottle were not tested before it was sent to the store.

Mr. Haskell desired to ask few questions. He wanted to know if Mr. Schloten came over to the witness and asked him what he knew of the case? Witness said he told him exactly the same thing as in Court.

The hearing then was adjourned until Judge Lobingier's return from Canton.

DR. KINDLER FILES APPEAL; CASE TO BE TRIED SOON

Attorney Eugene Laffranque has filed an appeal against the judgment given recently in the French Mixed Court against his client, Dr. Max Kindler, who was sentenced to six months in prison, with an alternative fine of Taels 600, for obtaining money under false pretences. Dr. Kindler was also ordered to pay Dou Yu-seng $12,000 which the latter alleges he paid the dental surgeon. Dou claims that Dr. Kindler agreed to secure a license for the Ya Tsi pharmacy in the French Concession to sell raw opium for medicinal purposes.

Attorney Laffranque is basing his appeal on the plea that native bank orders, which Dou alleges were paid to Dr. Kindler, have not been produced in Court, signed by the dentist. A general denial of the allegations is included.

The case will be heard after the holidays by Consul de la Prade and a Chinese assessor. Assessor Crepin tried the case in the French Mixed Court.

Dr. Kindler, while formerly a French protege, was tried in the Mixed Court as the protection of the French Consulate was denied him provisionally last July.

Dr. Beard is now in the middle of his research into the problems confronting Tokio and will sail for China as soon as he completes his researches. Dr. Beard will come merely as a tourist. He was asked if he intended to become an advisor in any capacity in China but said he thought there were too many advisors and too much advice here now.

other legitimate commercial purposes." (Ex. 3).

These aeroplanes were subsequently shipped from Tacoma and landed at Shanghai on a through bill of lading to Foochow, a permit having been previously obtained from the Secretary of State at Washington. Instead of being forwarded to Foochow, however, they were subsequently transhipped on an American vessel from Shanghai to Hankow, where, after being unloaded onto Chinese junks, preparatory to landing, they were seized by order of the American naval commanding officer, on the supposition that they might be destined for military purposes, and a complaint was thereupon filed in the American Consular Court.

There is no competent evidence from which the Court can find that the aeroplanes in question were intended for military purposes. The nearest approach to such evidence is the following from the testimony of the ship captain who conveyed the planes from Shanghai to Hankow:—

Q. You stated to the Boarding Officer on Sunday that these aeroplanes were destined for use in the Chinese Army under General Wu Pei-fu?

A. No. I did not say so. I stated that I heard so.

Q. From whom did you hear this?

A. From the compradore.

Q. This one (pointing to Mr. Li present)?

A. Yes.

Shortly afterwards and at the same hearing the compradore referred to was called as a witness, but the statement in question was not mentioned nor did the compradore give any evidence tending to support it. In any event it seems to have been purely hearsay and could afford no basis whatever for conviction.

Much is sought to be made of the deflection of the aeroplanes from Foochow, the original destination, to Hankow. Defendant's explanation of this is that the outbreak of civil war in Fukien Province rendered it impracticable to undertake flying operation there for commercial purposes and that inasmuch as the purchasers, or one of them, was also interested in business at Hankow it was decided to initiate the enterprise near that point instead of in Fukien.

Defendant is corroborated in this by certain Chinese witnesses who are shareholders in the purchasing company, one of whom states that ground had been leased between Peking and Hankow for landing purposes. All of these witnesses deny any intention or knowledge of any plan to use these planes for military purposes or any connection with military leaders. Defendant's testimony was, moreover, given in a frank and straightforward manner and bore the stamp of truthfulness.

It must also be remembered that the offense with which defendant is charged is "exportation to China", and that would seem to have been completed upon the landing of the planes at Shanghai. For the word "export" as used in the statute has a well defined meaning in American law. It signifies transfer from one country to another. As was observed by Mr. Justice Brewer:

"Whatever primary meaning be indicated by its derivation, the word 'export', as used in the Constitution and laws of the United States, generally means the transportation of goods from this to a foreign country."

Hence transhipment between points within the same country is not "exportation". The Supreme Court so even found

"It impossible to say that goods carried from New York to Porto Rico can be considered as 'exported' from New York within the meaning of that clause of the Constitution."

It follows that whatever part defendant may have taken in effecting the shipment from Shanghai to Hankow it did not constitute "exportation" and could not have been a violation of the act.

Again it seems clear that the defendant was not the responsible party in the original exportation, but was little more than an intermediary between the vendors, the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Corporation, and the purchasers. Besides, that act was effected, as we have seen, under the sanction of the Secretary of State.

Furthermore the resolution penalises only the exportation of "arms or munitions of war." It is clear, therefore, that in order to support a conviction the prosecution must establish beyond all reasonable doubt that the machines in question are "arms or munitions of war."

Now it is obvious that many articles might be used for military purposes which are capable of perfectly pacific uses. There are indeed certain instruments, such as artillery and poison gas, which for practical purposes might be termed exclusively military. But aeroplanes are not of this character. They are quite as often used for commerce or other purposes as for warfare.

The prosecution offered no evidence whatever to the effect that these particular aeroplanes were of a military type or were designed or constructed for use in warfare. On the other hand no less than three witnesses, all of whom were experienced in aviation, testified that the planes in question were not warplanes, that they were too slow for bombing purposes and were built entirely for commercial use.

It seems clear, therefore, that an essential ingredient of the offense charged has not only not been proved but has actually been disproved and this fact has an important bearing upon the question of intent; for if the planes were not of a military character, the probability of the defendant, or any one else connected with the transaction, having any intention to dispose of them for military purposes is greatly reduced. In any case we cannot think it was the purpose of the Congressional Resolution above quoted to penalise the sale of articles designed primarily for commercial purposes merely because they might fall into the hands of the military.

The defendant is entitled to the presumption of innocence and the case against him must be established beyond reasonable doubt. It is not claimed that there is any direct evidence of intention on his part to violate the law. The sole reliance is upon circumstances; but circumstantial evidence must be such as to exclude every other reasonable hypothesis than that of guilt. The circumstances here fall far short of any such effect. We find in them nothing which may not be explained on perfectly innocent grounds and nothing which proves that defendant was engaged in any other than an enterprise which would have been beneficial to his own country as well as to China. He is accordingly acquitted with costs de officio.

In committing the defendant to this Court, the Consular judge included the following provision in his order:

"And I do further enjoin the delivery of the aeroplanes pending instructions from the United States Court for China as to their disposition."

If a Consul may issue an injunction at all (which we do not now decide) he can do so only in a civil cause and upon a proper complaint setting forth a case for such relief. Such an order cannot be issued as the result of a mere preliminary hearing in a criminal case.

The said order is accordingly declared to be of no effect.

Charles S. Lobingier,
Judge.

Ocean Rates To Be Raised

the Transpacific Line and Shanghai-New York conference that an attempt is being made to increase the freight rates.

SHANGHAI SURPRISED

This news of rate cutting on the other side comes hardly as a surprise to us. Many Japanese and other tramp vessels experience great difficulty in picking up cargo on their return trips from the Atlantic ports to Japan. They prefer to take cargo at any price, and this is to be prefered against steaming into an Oriental port under ballast. For instance, when the American crop begins to move every year a number of Japanese and other vessels are switched on to New York and other ports of shipment for the crop, and these vessels carry the cotton to the consuming ports abroad. When the charter expires the boats on their return to the East pick up cargo at any rate. The same thing happens when the American wheat crop is in movement.

ALTERED RATES FROM N. Y.

The New York-Far Eastern rates have been increased from time to time during the past year. In fact the rates have fluctuated continually, taking a rise and recording a drop. The rates are still very low, and this is due to the business depression. Like the Far-East conference, the New York conference has been reorganised but the latter in last fall. The membership includes the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, the Robert Dollar Company, the Toyo Kisen Kaisha and six other steamship companies. This combine fixed the freight rate on iron, which is considered the chief item in New York-Far East freight movements at G.$10 to G.$13, according to size; on rolling stock at G.$12 and on sulphur at G.$10, these rates to be effective on and after April 1. The postponement, it is believed, has been asked by the Shipping Board in view of the fact that efforts are about to be made during the interim to persuade non-Conference lines to join. How this rate-cutting can be effectively stopped it is difficult to understand.

The threat to employ coercive measures, which has been thrown out by the Conference to non-members, if put into effect would lead to a nice further rate-cutting. One of the ways of treating with competition would be for a Conference company to reduce its rate to a figure that the tramp vessels would find it hopeless to compete with and thus eventually be forced to go out of business. Apparently such a measure might eventually be taken. It has been adopted in the past, but in the long run its benefits are minimised.

Fortunately, the trans-Pacific and Shanghai-New York Conferences are faced with such obstacles in putting into effect any increase in freight rates. There is more cohesion among them.

The Trans-Pacific membership includes the N. Y. K., T. K. K., O. S. K., Robert Dollar, Blue Funnel, Dodwell and Co., Ellerman and Bucknall, Tampa Inter-Ocean, Kerr Line, Prince Line and the Barber Line.

DISTURBING FACTOR

The only disturbing factor on this side is the Yamashita Kisen Kiasha, a Kobe concern which runs tramp vessels from Taku to the Pacific Coast of America. So far the Trans-Pacific Conference lines have not felt the competition of this line as only a single vessel of 6,000 tons transhipps every month at Pacific ports. The M. B. K. has its own vessels and is out of the Conference, but most of the vessels carry the company's own cargoes.

A number of tramp vessels are handled at Shanghai for the Pacific Coast, but they are almost all in the Conference. It is feared that the Trans-Pacific rates will sooner or later be increased. In fact there are rumors afloat that such a measure is contemplated.

HARVARD NINE MAY PLAY HERE

Crimson Baseballers Are Expected In Shanghai Next Summer

TO TOUR JAPAN

Baseball Club Meeting Set For February 27 At American Club

Announcement that the annual meeting of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club is to be held at the American Club on Tuesday evening, February 27, has started the Hot Stove League followers speculating as to the prospects for next season.

And now comes a telegram from Cambridge, Massachusetts, across the Charles River from Herby Gallop's home town, stating that the Harvard University baseball team will be in Japan some time in June and craves action in Shanghai along about August. The Crimson ball tossers will not complain about a trip through North China, either, and it is expected that Captain McLott of the Marines and Captain McChrystal of the 15th Infantry will get letters to the Boston suburb about the same time that the graduate manager opens a letter from one Mr. Gallop.

Harvard ends her season with the game against Yale on Class Day which comes early in June. It is a matter of less than three weeks from Cambridge to Yokohama and the Crimson athletes should be playing in Japan before the first of July.

The Harvard graduate manager has accepted the invitation from Professor Abe of Waseda and plans to make a month's tour of the country. Games will be played with Waseda, Keio, Meiji, Hosei and St. Paul's Universities while Waseda and Harvard will go on a baseball missionary tour through the Kwansei district where exhibition games will be played in order that the Japanese in this section will be able to see high-class baseball.

A return series is being arranged, to take place within three years. Waseda expects to send a team to America again in 1925 at the latest.

The Crimson crew should be free for further touring about the third or last week in July and Gallop plans to get in touch with the Marines and 15th Infantry so that the collegians will come down from the North. Games will probably be arranged at Mukden and Harbin while an exhibition will probably be staged at Seoul. Korea is taking up baseball while Manchuria is wild about the American game.

The Harvard trip will be discussed at the annual meeting of the ball club on February 27. Officers are to be elected while the new constitution will probably be laid before the meeting. Gallop expects to get authorisation to proceed with the erection of new stands.

Herbert is sure to be returned to his post as manager and certainly Fred McIntyre will be re-elected president after the two combined so well last season to give Shanghai its biggest baseball year. Jack Smith will not stand for re-election to the secretary's berth as he affirms he neither craves the honor nor has the time to do the work properly. Julius Rosenfeld is being groomed for the position and would be a good man for the post. There are few fans who are as keen as Julius and he has been a loyal supporter of the Club for years. He would make an efficient and energetic secretary if he would take up the duties.

Another matter which will come before the general meeting will be the writing of a letter to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, supreme arbiter of baseball. The local ball club will express its thanks to the National Commission for sending the Big Leaguers here in December and will voice approval of an annual barnstorming tour by major league players. The type of men brought out by Herby Hunter were a credit to the American national sport and did much to correct some wrong ideas of our biggest professional game with other nationals.

Bearcats Trim Public School By 58 To 32 Score

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

Kenny Irle's Bearcats were back in form last night at the Y.M.C.A. easily trimming the Public School quintet in a Foreign League match by a score of 58 to 32.

The game opened close, the Bearcats leading in the first exchange of shots, and then the School took a spurt, and came within a point of tying the score. Here the Bearcats romped away again, and at half-time were leading 36 to 13.

Play during the second half was very even. After the Bearcats had pushed to the front with a margin of 30 points, the Public School staged a rally and scored 19 points, mainly through the brilliant individual play of Jack Levis, who tallied eight baskets for the School team. Jesu played a scrappy game at guard, caging a goal near the end of the contest.

LEVIS STARS

Levis was clearly the star for the Public School, while Kenny Irle, Pollock and Doc Gray shared honors for the winners. Irle was in great form, netting nine baskets, but Doc Gray led the scoring with a total of 11 baskets and two scores from the foul line. In teamwork the Bearcats clearly showed their superiority, the schoolboys featuring their play with brilliant individual efforts.

The summary follows:

Bearcats		Public School
Roxburgh	lf	Levis
Gray	rf	Ferris
Irle	c	Brockett
Pollock	lg	Remedios
MacGown	rg	Lewis

Goals from floor: Roxburgh 5, Gray 11, Irle 9, Pollock 3, Levis 3, Ferris 2, Brockett 4, Jesu. Goals from fouls: Gray 2, Levis 2. Referee: Roy Squires.

Shanghai Rifle Association Holds Its Annual Meeting; Officers Elected For 1923

The annual meeting of the the Shanghai Rifle Association was held yesterday afternoon at the Volunteer Corps Lecture Hall when the year was reviewed by Mr. J. C. Busustow, who was in the chair.

The speaker told of the efforts to put through an interport rifle match and expressed the gratitude of the Association for the encouragement given riflemen by the retiring S. V. C. Commandant, Colonel R. Marr Johnson.

Mr. Busustow said:

"Gentlemen: The very full and detailed report of the activities of the Association and the income and expenditure account for the year ending December 31, 1921, were sent to each member through the post, and having been in your hands presumably for several days I will, with your permission, take them as read. Before asking you to adopt them, however, there are one or two points I wish to emphasise.

"The Association continues to prosper and that a keen interest is taken in rifle shooting is proved by the membership roll which shows an increase of 20 active members for the year under review.

FINANCIAL POSITION

"The finances of the Association are in a healthy condition, the fund at the end of the year standing at $7,106.17, as against $6,938.79 on December 31, 1921, or a gain of $167.38 for the year The actual cash balance, however, is approximately $1,000 less than at the commencement of the year, and this is accounted for by the very heavy purchases of ammunition made during the year which the Committee, for certain good and sufficient reasons, considered advisable.

"It was found impossible to arrange an Interport match last year, but the Committee has been in communication with the various ports and an endeavor is being made to do something this year. There are some difficulties in the way, which it is hoped can be overcome, one being that a certain port wishes to restrict the rifle used to the short Lee-Enfield. If this course were adopted it would bar from the Shanghai team good shots who shoot with the Springfield rifle and we have replied therefore suggesting that any military rifle be permitted in these matches.

"You will, no doubt, have observed that the Committee has instituted an attendance cup for each class, and this innovation has apparently met with the approval of members, the number of competitors in the last two shoots, in spite of the bitterly cold weather prevailing, being much larger than in previous competitions.

THANKS COLONEL JOHNSON

"With regard to the small bore range, the butts are almost completed and it is hoped that, within two or three weeks they will be ready for use. The Association is under a deep obligation to Colonel R. Marr Johnson for the part he played in putting the scheme through, and tenders its thanks to him and also to Mr. C. Luthy for kindly providing the necessary plan and specifications.

"Finally, on behalf of the Association, I wish to thank Colonel Marr Johnson and the permanent staff of the S.V.C. for the facilities given us at the Range, and for assistance in many other directions; also the various firms and individuals for their liberal support of the prize fund, the S.N.O. for details from H. M. ships in port, and the members of the Chinese Company, S.V.C. for acting as register keepers at the annual meeting, and to Mr. Rose for kindly auditing the accounts."

A resolution proposed by Mr. H. W. Lambert, seconded by Mr. G. M. Neal that the May Rifle meeting be entirely Bisley shooting was carried.

The following were elected committee for 1923: Dr. S. A. Ransom, Mr. J. C. Busustow, M.B. E.; Q. M. Sergt. W. T. Rose, Mr. R. I. Ito, Mr. F. E. Hodges, Mr. C. G. Hoh and Mr. A. M. Collaco.

Phillips Goes To Semi-Final By Defeating Lopes 800-660 In Billiard Championship

Mr. R. P. Phillips last night earned the right to play the winner of the billiard match between Messrs. C. W. Porter and J. W. Prince. Mr. Phillips defeated Mr. J. Lopes in a hectic second-round game at the Marine Engineers Institute when both men played an erratic game. Both lost opportunities and a remarkable spurt by Phillips shortly after he started his fourth century, brought him the victory. In fourteen visits to the table the ultimate winner had an average of better than 19. His average for the 800 points was but 6.2, while Lopes contributed a lowly 5.1. Phillips made 128 visits to the table before he totalled his necessary 800. Lopes made 660.

In the meantime there was a wild-eyed junior championship battle being staged at the Masonic Club where Messrs. F. A. Alvares and P. S. Barradas were having their set-to. Alvares won 400-352, but Barradas hung up a break of 71, by far the best of the evening's play. He also made a 49. Alvares broke 58, 42 and 31. He goes into the semi-final by virtue of his victory last night.

PHILLIPS AND LOPES

At several stages of the game at the Marine Engineers Institute there was a little excitement for the result was in doubt until Phillips made his spurt. Lopes got away to an early lead with breaks of 47 and 34 but Phillips had an edge of 62 points when his opponent hit 300. Phillips was far from right and he was a long time steadying down. The ex-secretary of the Billiard Association had been on police duty for a couple of hours and even a special copper gets wet in the rain.

When Lopes had tallied 450, Phillips had stretched his lead to 100, aided by a 44 break. Phillips hung up 600 before Lopes got 400. The score was 622-403. Phillips had been going great and then he slipped up a bit, the next hundred coming slowly but Lopes failed to take advantage of his opponent's poor playing and had but 460 when Phillips went to 706. This was at 11 o'clock and it was 45 minutes before the other hundred was tallied. Lopes took a spurt as Phillips continued to slump but was not consistent enough and as Lopes got to 604, his opponent was 168 to the good. The final margin of victory was 140 points.

Lopes had the high break of 47 while Phillips ran 45, 44, 41. Lopes also broke 38, 34 and 31.

Phillips was the more consistent and will give either Prince or Porter a hard game. He is playing better billiards this season than for some years and many look for him to enter the final.

NEW YEAR RACE MEET SATURDAY

Eleven Events On Program For First Day At Kiangwan

300 PONIES ENTER

Record List For Four Days' Programs; Champions Tuesday

The New Year Race Meeting at the Kiangwan course which is perhaps the outstanding sporting event of the holiday season opens on Saturday when a program of eleven events will be held. The meeting is to extend through four days, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday and the following Saturday, Feb. 17, 19, 20 and 24.

There are 300 ponies entered from 102 stables.

Mr. Dallas holds a strong hand for the champions with Salvation if the course is dry and Shenkoland if the rain comes. Mr. Morriss is also fancied for the big event while Mr. John Johnstone, who now has Social Union and Christmas Gift, should not be far out. Mr. Morriss should win the Derby.

Other old ponies which should go near the mark on Saturday are Hakone, Beautiful Fellow, Aerometer, Pennyfield, Maresfield, Nationalist, Letchfield, Ajax, Bright Folly, and Harbin.

On the first three days of the meeting the first saddling bell will ring at 11:30 o'clock in the morning and the first bell in the afternoon will ring at 1 o'clock.

It is believed that the big prize of the main event, The Champions Sweepstake, will go to an unprecedented total this year. The race is the eighth on Tuesday's

H'KONG DERBY HAS 33 ENTRIES; GRIFFINS POOR

Entries for Hongkong's annual race meeting at the end of this month are a record. A new figure of over 1,000 has been set up. For the Derby there are 33 entries.

The big entry, however, is not up to the class of previous years. Of 80 Larsen griffins only half have been found worth training and so far they have not made any remarkable times. The pick of the Derby candidates seem to be Mr. G. H. Pott's Harvest King, Mr. Hector Sassoon's Roman Standard and Sir Paul's Peerless Dahlia.

The following are the entrants for the Hongkong Derby, third race on the second day, one mile and a half, ponies to be ridden by jockeys who have won at least three flat races in Hongkong or China, or jockeys approved by the Stewards.

RUHR TUG-OF-WAR IS INTENSIFYING; BIG RELIEF FUND

French Tightening The Screws, Germans Fight Back

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Feb. 12.—A motor car with two French officers and a German chauffeur was held up at Gelsenkirchen last night by policemen because it was not provided with a rear lamp.

The officers alighted and disarmed the policemen.

A detachment of police then arrived and were fired on by one of the French officers who wounded one policeman.

The motorcar speeded off and the policemen fired, wounding both the officers who have been taken to hospital with the wounded policeman.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Postal communication between Berlin and Holland and Spain has been interrupted.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 12.—Despatches from correspondents in the occupied territory show that the French and German tug-of-war is intensifying. People are being expelled and arrested in larger numbers than ever, including burgomasters, all classes of officials, parsons and school masters.

About half of the chief daily newspapers published in unoccupied Germany are not allowed in the Ruhr and about half of the newspapers in the occupied zone are at present suspended.

The Germans on their part are endeavoring to strengthen the resistance of their compatriots by big relief measures. The Ruhr relief fund in Berlin alone has collected 600,000,000 marks apart from Government help which means many thousand millions more and the help of the industrial magnates, who are staking a large part of their resources on the success of the fight.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Berlin, Feb. 13.—The Havas Agency report that part of the relief funds sent to sufferers in the Ruhr district have been used to provide arms for the inhabitants has been emphatically denied in official circles here.

A committee of representatives of all political parties under the chairmanship of Chancellor Cuno is distributing the funds in proportion to the prices obtaining and the condition of the people in the various districts occupied.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Feb. 12.—It is semi-officially stated that the German Government has protested in London, Paris and Brussels against the "illegal" ordinance of the Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission declaring that Germans complying with the Commission's regulations will be protected against prosecution by the German authorities and that infractions of the ordinances are punishable by a fine not exceeding 50,000,000 marks and imprisonment for five years.

Bandits Threaten To Burn Shantung Mission Home

(China Press Correspondence)

Ichowfu, Feb. 8.—Not since the foundation of the Republic has the section of Shantung lying along the road between this city and Yihsien been so infested by bandits as it is at present. Almost daily one hears of towns being attacked and prisoners taken and held for ransom. These reports are substantiated by the wounded who come to the local hospital for treatment and by the ever increasing number who are taking refuge in the city having fled from their homes in the nearby villages.

A few days ago notices were posted on the walls of the American Presbyterian Mission compound at Yihsien stating that unless $50,00 was turned over to the bandits within one hundred days all the buildings would be destroyed and foreign and native Christians killed. The matter was at once brought to the attention of the Chinese and American authorities. A strong guard has been posted around the compound and every precaution is being taken to prevent the threat from being carried out.

A walled town below this city and not far from the river was recently pillaged by bandits. The villagers were told to leave town and they were glad of the chance to escape leaving the robbers in command of the situation. A small force of soldiers was sent to retake the village, but no attack was made as their numbers were deemed insufficient. Reinforcements have been sent from Ichowfu and the outcome is awaited with interest.

One of the chief difficulties in combating the bandits is in the lack of co-operation between the authorities of Kiangsu and Shantung. The Shantung soldiers claim they drive the robbers over the border into Kiangsu, but the Kiangsu soldiers are not on hand to continue the operation. The Kiangsu military authorities claim that their men drive the bandits over into Shantung but the latter's soldiers are always too slow in taking advantage of their opportunity. While this inter-provincial quarrel goes on bandits are apparently permitted to do as they please, and in the meantime life is not without its thrills for both Chinese and foreigner.

Rain Spoils Test Match Attendance

Scores: England 1st innings 244 (Mead 38, Carr 63, Fender 44, Mann 34) 2nd innings 294 for 5 wickets (Russell 96, Sandham 58, Wooley 80 not out).

Asia Banking Corporation

February 13, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ¼d. in London yesterday. As there was a holiday in New York no advices either regarding silver or the London-New York cross rate have been received from there.

Our official quotations here today were unchanged from yesterday and our market was very firm throughout the day.

At the opening a small business in Sterling was done at 3s. 1d. for near delivery, 3s. 0½d. for March and 3s. 0⅝d. for April.

Gold Dollars were done at 72¼ for near delivery, 71¾ for February and 71½ for forward. However there were good sellers at these rates and the market strengthened considerably closing very firm with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 1⅛d. for near delivery, 3s. 0⅞d. February, 3s. 0⅛d. French Share Of Boxer Fund Will Go To Aid Banque

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 12.—The House of Representatives will hold a special meeting tomorrow to discuss the payment of the French part of the Boxer Indemnity, at which, it is understood, the House will urge the Government to pay in paper and not in gold francs. It is understood in that connection that the Chinese and French Governments agreed last July that payment should be in gold Francs.

The funds will be used partly for Sino-French educational purposes and partly for refloating the Banque Industrielle de Chine. If the matter is amicably settled, the Banque Industrielle will probably open before the end of February.

Heavy Trade Forecast

MANUFACTURERS in America are preparing for an exceptionally busy season, both in their domestic industries and the export trade, in the view of the National City Bank, which points out that in many cases manufacturers are doubling their importation of raw material compared with a year ago; while on the export side manufacturers are the one group of articles which shows an increase in exportation, while other groups show a decline. Manufactures exported in August, the latest month for which official figures are available, showed an increase of 15 percent in value compared with the same month last year, while other articles exported showed a reduction of more than thirty-three percent in value in the same period. The few figures thus far received for September exports indicate that the record of that month will also show a heavy fall in exports of non-manufactured material, and probably an increase in manufactures exported.

"The startling factor in the activities of the manufacturers at the present time is in the tremendous increase in their importation of raw materials," says the bank in reviewing the situation. "Practically every important article for which our manufacturers require foreign material shows large increase in the quantities imported in August, 1922, when compared with those of August 1921. The chief importations for manufacturing materials are: cotton, silk, wool, fibres, rubber, hides furs, tobacco, tin, copper, lead, zinc, pig iron, lumber, paper stock, fertilisers, aluminum and asbestos, and every one of these shows much larger quantities imported in August, 1922, than in the same month last year.

"Just a few instances for example: of hides which we must import from abroad, since our own production is insufficient to meet domestic requirements, the importations in August were 60,000,000 pounds against 38,000,000 in the same month of last year; and of furs, of which we are also large importers, over 14,000,000 pieces, against 7,000,000 in the same month last year. Of India rubber, for which we are entirely dependent on other countries since we produce none at home, the imports of August were 54,000,000 pounds against 38,000,000; fertilisers 115,000 tons against only 11,000; fibres, for which we are dependent on the tropics, show 20,000 tons of imports in August against 13,000 in August, 1921, this increase occurring chiefly in sisal drawn from Mexico and Manila, from our own Philippine Islands. Copper, of which we produce all that we require, comes to us from abroad chiefly because of our superior smelting and refining marketing facilities, and the quantity of the class designated "unrefined, black, blister and converter" copper entering the country in August, 1922, was more than double that of August, 1921, while brass imported for manufacturing purposes was six times as much in quantity in August, 1922, as in August, 1921. All of the textile materials show increases. Cotton, of which we import constantly increasing quantities despite the fact that we produce two-thirds of the world's crop, totaled 7,500,000 pounds in August, 1922, against less than 3,000,000 in August, 1921; wool, 34,000,000 pounds against 16,000,00; while raw silk shows a slight increase in quantity despite the fact that the price of the August, 1922, imports was $7.14 per pound against only $5.42 per pound in the same month of last year.

"Practically all of the other materials for use in manufacturing show increases and these include lumber, cabinet woods, pulp wood, wood pulp, paper stock, iron ore, pig iron, lead, zinc, aluminum, asbestos and sulphur ore, and in a considerable proportion of these articles, as in those already enumerated, the quantity imported in August of the current year is double that of the same month of 1921."

"Discharge Coolie Found Carrying Many Cartridges," says a headline in THE CHINA PRESS, which looks better than if the 1,285 cartridges he was carrying had been discharged.

O beautiful star with the crimson mouth!
O moon with the brows of gold!
Rise up, rise up, from the odorous south!
And light for my love her way,
Lest her little feet should stray
On the windy hill and the wold!
O beautiful star with the crimson mouth!
O moon with the brows of gold!
O ship that shakes on the desolate sea!
O ship with the wet, white sail!
Put in, put in, to the port to me!
For my love and I would go
To the land where the daffodils blow
In the heart of a violet dale!
O ship that shakes on the desolate sea!
O ship with the wet, white sail!
O rapturous bird with the low, sweet note!
O bird that sings on the spray!
Sing on, sing on, from your soft brown throat!
And my love in her little bed
Will listen, and lift her head
From the pillow, and come my way!
O rapturous bird with the low, sweet note!
O bird that sits on the spray!

Judge Lindsey Tells Why Married Life Fails

New York, Jan. 15.—At last the eternal interrogation which has long supplied drama, novel and social philosophy with varying forms of subject matter has a direct answer: Is marriage a failure?

"Yes, as a social institution marriage has failed. Here are statistics to prove it."

The answer was supplied by Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

"We have got to face the most serious social problem of modern times," he said. "Do you know that for every marriage in Denver during 1922 there has been a separation? For every two marriage licenses issued there has been a divorce suit filed. And what makes the tragedy so alarming is that what is true of Denver is true of every city in the country. What statistics prove of the West will hold good for the East. There is one thing we cannot get away from and that is the one-ness of the American people.

"Think of it—in the last four years the marriage and divorce ratio has changed from four to one to two to one. These statistics show the number of separations arising from nonsupport and desertion which have come under the observation of my own Domestic Relations Court. Up to December 16 of 1922, in the City and County of Denver, 2,908 marriage licenses were issued and 1,492 divorce cases filed. That makes the divorces 49.5 percent of the marriage licenses. Now add to these my own figures, recording 1,500 cases of separation, and it makes the number almost 3,000—2,992 to be exact. Allowing an estimate of fifty cases for the remaining days of December, that would bring the divorces up to 1,542, compared with the 1,497 of 1921. And even allowing 100 marriages for those same remaining days, the marriage licenses granted in 1922 for Denver would be 3,008, compared to the 3,626 of 1921. The increase in divorces was 45. The decrease in marriages was 618.

"In 1920 there were 4,002 marriage licenses issued in Denver. Compare that with the 3,008 of 1922 and it makes you think, doesn't it?

"In Chicago last year reports showed that there were 39,000 marriage licenses granted and 13,000 divorce decrees signed. Remember that the decrees signed did not represent all of those filed, nor the large number of separations. You see at once how lamentably marriage has failed."

"Why has it failed?"

"The answer is almost circular," said the Judge. "Marriage is a failure because of changing conventions, and the conventions are changing because marriage is a failure. But to be more explicit—young people today are reluctant to accept a convention called 'Right' when they see it proved wrong. Consider the effect upon conventions of the constantly repeated knowledge which these statistics represent—when interpreted into tragedies of domestic failures.

SOCIETY IS INDIFFERENT

"I believe the seriousness of the problem is augmented by the reluctance, or perhaps I should say, indifference of society in facing social truths and inevitable situations. We cannot get away from the fact of changing conventions and we cannot fail to see that the percentage of people who think and talk along these lines, seriously, constructively, is very small."

"But what are the definite reasons for the failure of marriage?" the interviewer insisted.

"Well," replied Judge Lindsey, "an important reason is that young people are having it constantly drilled into them that marriage is a failure and they can see no use in entering a relation which is obviously a failure. Youth instinctively shuns anything savoring of lack of success.

"But the most significant reason is the broadening viewpoint of the present generation; its refusal to recognise as sin what convention has heretofore established as such. The whole thing is coming to a recognition of two standards—one that is and the other what is to be."

"And what is to be?"

"That people may live together without being married in the conventional way," rang out the Judge's reply.

"You approve of this?"

"It is not a question of what I approve, but what is going to be. It is not a question of my approval, but what the failure of conventions has brought about. But perhaps I should have placed my third reason first, as it is the most direct in its effect," said the Judge. "I mean the economic independence of woman is a vital reason for the failure of marriage."

"Surely you do not think her economic independence a bad thing for our social life?"

"No, it is not a bad thing," replied Judge Lindsey, "but it is forcing us to a different standard of so-called morality."

"Just what do you mean?" was the natural question.

"I mean that since so many people fail to live together after the conventional formality of marriage they are justifying themselves in living together without that formality. If they disagree, a separation is much simpler than the expenses and difficulty of a divorce. Thousands are doing this without making a general announcement before the world at large. But they are justified in their small groups—in their own little worlds. How long will it be before these little worlds merge and form the big world?"

"But how does the economic independence of women enter into the case?"

"Oh, yes—but it does," exclaimed the Judge. "In the past what we have termed the success of marriage depended almost entirely upon the economic slavery of women. Today women are no longer slaves."

"Still, if the marriage ceremony were abolished, women as a whole would be the worst sufferers, wouldn't they? Naturally economically independent women might solve their own destinies, but there are the others—the hordes of others—"

"My goodness," cried the Judge, aghast. "I do not advocate abolishing the marriage ceremony?"

"Just what do you advocate?"

The Judge's reply fairly burst from him.

"Respect for people who love each other although unmarried. The right of the child to be born. Recognition of the child of the unmarried mother. That is the first thing of importance in adjustment to changing conventions."

"But—"

CHILDREN THE VITAL ISSUE

"You are going to ask me—I see it coming," interrupted the Judge. "If that would not lead to so-called immorality? My answer is—do not the lack of respect and failure to recognise children of unmarried couples lead to murder—the destruction of infant life?"

"Still, if the conventional union called marriage is a failure, just how does the unconventional relationship better the situation?"

"I do not say that it betters the state of union. I insist that it betters the state of the child. And it is the child in whom my interest centers."

"What is to become of the child, according to your theories of unconventional mating?"

"What is to become of the child of married relation?" retorted the Judge. "You seem to assume that the child is all right under the conventional married state. Let me assure you that marriage is not a guarantee for the future of a child. It is not even a guarantee of a father, because of the fathers separting from the mothers.

"In a recent survey of a typical American city 32 percent of legitimate children in a school had no father at home. These children were being brought up under artificial paternity. Please do not misunderstand me and think that I would abolish marriage. Far from it. But we must face a vital situation. Will we not be forced to the recognition—for the child's sake—of another standard?"

"Do you think a change in the marriage laws would make things better?"

"I doubt it very much," replied Judge Lindsey. "We are becoming too paternal. We are trying to regulate the lives of others too much. We are preparing the path for youth when we should be preparing youth for the path. There are two kinds of paternalism, a wholesome, helpful one, and an unwholesome, dangerous one. In trying to uphold one we are encouraging the other. This unwholesome one, based upon hypocrisy, begins by putting too many restraints upon society. One of the best things we could do would be to psycho-analyse our social life."

"Remove social inhibitions?"

"Yes," replied the Judge. "We recognise the beneficial effects of psycho-analysing the individual, freeing suppressed desires. Well, the soul of society is quite as responsive to treatment as the soul of the individual. The social conscience can be reached and stirred to proper reactions. I believe that in the subconscious mind of society there are urges which are driving us to recognise the changing conventions.

"We must recognise the fact that we are facing a terrific conflict between instincts and conventions. Social life today is a matter of artificial restraints. Just as in the case of the individual subject of psycho-analytical treatment—life should be regulated by natural, not artificial restraints. We have only to look about us at the shifting sands of conventions to realise that in the conflict between instincts and conventions instincts are winning."

TOO MANY LAWS NOW

"But," he was reminded, "restraints are expressed in laws, and you, a Judge, believe in laws—"

"We are surfeited with laws," he replied. "I have placed fifty-two new laws on the Colorado statute books and have, among others, changed the law making the domicile the wife's and not the husband's home. We must not be oppressed with laws. They do not always bring satisfactory remedies. The law that conquers is the law of the heart. We are depending too much upon artificial restraints when we should depend upon natural ones. The best law is the self-imposed one in contrast to the artificially imposed one. And that is just where the changing conventions are making the world of tomorrow different from the world of yesterday.

"We know that divorce would not be so overwhelming in the Western States if the conventional marriage institution had proved a success. Hasn't marriage failed when there are as many break-ups as make-ups?"

"You think we must change the conventions?"

"Must!" echoed the Judge. "It isn't a question of must but of what is.

"Do you believe divorce and separations avoidable or necessary?"

"They are necessary until conditions that cause them are corrected. We can never raise the standard of morality by checking divorce. The Church has failed to safeguard the married state by decrying divorce. It not only has failed in the past but it always will fail. In re-reading Lecky's 'History of European Morals' recently I was fortified in my belief by discovering that during a period of 500 years, when there was not a single divorce, a more immoral epoch in the world's history was never known, nor was woman's position so degraded.

"Whether I believe in certain conventions, whether you believe in others that are crumbling to pieces, is beside the point. Our individual approval or disapproval has nothing to do with the matter. Within our own days we will see such radical changes in our conventions regarding unions of men and women that both marriage and divorce statistics will be materially changed."

"For the betterment of society?"

"Oh, that is a question I cannot answer. I am not a prophet—but merely a student of social conditions—trying to help children. These things affect the great interest of my life—the child. For the child's sake we must face this most important problem. In these changing conventions the child must be protected."

Earth And Atmosphere A Connected Mass

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"Would you inform me, if the earth travels approximately a thousand miles an hour, why is it that it doesn't appear to move from under us when at an elevation of five or six miles in an airship? Is the atmosphere carried at that elevation as strongly as at the surface of the earth? Is it not possible to travel a certain distance faster going eastward than westward, as to time?—W. S. Elmhurst."

I think it important occasionally to answer in some detail questions of this kind, for the reason that they touch the simplest fundamental facts and ideas, and would not be asked if the schools did not, too frequently, shoot completely over the heads of their pupils in imparting elementary science.

Evidently, what the querist is thinking of is the earth's rotation on its axis, which is performed with a linear speed of about 1,000 miles an hour at the surface along the equator. In the middle latitudes the surface speed of turning diminishes regularly until at the poles it vanishes. But everywhere, from equator to pole, the angular speed of rotation is necessarily the same, viz., one turn in twenty-four hours. The linear speed varies with the distance from the axis of the earth.

Now the atmosphere is a gaseous envelope surrounding, in touch with and resting upon the rotating earth. As a whole the atmosphere turns with the earth at the same angular speed. This from what has just been said about the atmosphere resting upon the solid globe of the earth.

If we should suppose that there was a time when the atmosphere did not share the rotational movement of the earth, though in touch with it, then, plainly, there must, at that time, have been a tremendous wind blowing around the earth in a direction opposite to that in which the globe turned. The rotation being from west to east, the wind would have been from east to west. Its speed at the equator would have been a thousand miles an hour; in the latitude of the northern United States about 766 miles an hour, and around the poles a horizontal circular turning.

Owing, however, to the effects of friction, the atmosphere could not have remained thus relatively motionless, like a shell, with the earth turning inside it. Rapidly it would have taken up motion from the earth until, after a time, it had reached the state in which we find it today, i.e., carried regularly around with the solid globe in its rotation and also accompanying the earth in its annual voyage around the sun, which is performed at an average speed of 66,000 miles an hour.

Now, in suggesting an original state of motionlessness for the air as a whole, I do not mean to say that there ever was a time when that condition existed, but I merely use the illustration to make it plain why the atmosphere must rotate with the earth, since, even if it began with no rotation, it would be compelled to share in the turning motion of the earth, and the process of communicating motion from the earth to the shell of air could not cease until an equilibrium had been established.

When we go up in the air, then, to a great height we continue to take part in the common rotation of the atmosphere and the earth, for they are both parts of a single rotating mass, and the fact that the air is fluid while the globe beneath is solid does not alter their relationship.

The atmosphere is able to share in the rotation of the earth because the space beyond the upper surface, or upper limits, of the atmosphere is empty, as far as any physical resistance to the turning of the atmospheric shell is concerned. The hypothetical medium, filling all space and conveying the waves of light, heat and other forms of radiant energy, causes no friction to any body, whether solid, liquid or gaseous, moving through it.

However, there are motions of the atmosphere, winds, currents, etc., which do result, in part from the rotation of the earth. In other words, while as a whole the atmosphere rotates with the solid globe, portions of its have other, changing movements not shared with the earth's surface.

High aloft, many miles above the ground, there are also more or less permanent currents, some moving easterly, others westerly, one above another. A full knowledge of these details of the structure and internal motions of the atmosphere has not yet been acquired. But they are not contradictory to the general facts stated above.

If you go around the earth from west to east you will gain a day with reference to the calendar, and if you go around the other way you will similarly lose a day; but this is only apparent, for the distance around is the same both ways, and the actual duration of the trip will be the same if the average speed of travel is the same.

Books And So Forth

BY F. F. VAN DE WATER

DESTINY

O'er drab and futile tasks I pore,
In sordid ways my life is laid—
Yet I shall face, at last, the door
Where august Caesars stooped, dismayed.

No hosts my swift decisions wait;
On humble paths I go and come—
Yet I shall stand before that gate
Where heroes halted, awed and dumb.

And there, when He, unseen, will watch
One unrenowned for Worth or Sin,
May I not fumble with the latch
And fear to push the portal in.

Shall I, when I have struggled past
The barriers that Fate had planned,
Forget my longing, when at last
I on Adventure's threshold stand?

I pray that for a second's space
Upon that door my shadow fall
Before I burst it in, to face
The True Romance that waits for all.

Until we started to read "From Seven to Seventy," the autobiography of Edward Simmons, we had no idea, such is our artistic benightedness, who Edward Simmons was. We know now. He is our friend and we are his respectful admirer. That is the sort of volume "From Seven to Seventy" is.

Most persons who sit down to write their personal histories appear to feel, not unreasonably, that their triumphs should be the most important part of their history and everything else incidental. Mr. Simmons has reversed that scheme. A mural painter by profession, he has used a spacious canvas for his work. He has given us as vivid an impression of his surroundings as he has of Edward Simmons.

We don't remember whom he married. We don't think he says. We're uncertain whether he mentions his children, or the lack of them. He is a gentleman who has considered that the world at large may not be particularly interested in his family affairs—or in any affairs exclusively his own, for that matter. So he tells the world instead of his contacts with Emerson, Thoreau, Hawthorne, Sumner, Louisa M. Alcott, John Brown, Verlaine, Whistler, Rosa Bonheur, Canfield, Booth, Stanford White and a score more.

Mr. Simmons was born in Concord in the parsonage where Hawthorne lived when he wrote "Mosses From an Old Manse." He lived in San Francisco during its vivid, prodigal youth. He studied in Paris and has worked for many years in New York. Each of these cities, in turn, forms the background for a life story that consists chiefly of one anecdote after another —gorgeous anecdotes that restore flesh and blood to persons who had begun to grow glamourous and indefinite through the passage of the years.

Edward Simmons is a great artist—more shame to us for our ignorance. We think that he is even greater as an autobiographer. After reading his account of his life, you feel real regret that he isn't a cat.

It is a great pity that all autobiographers are not as frank as Mr. Simmons—or even more so. After all, each man's knowledge of himself and the theories of living that he has built up for that self during the course of two or three generations, embody everything that fiction tries to encompass and so seldom achieves.

The best fiction, we think, is generally directly or indirectly autobiographical—and the worst part of autobiography is the fiction that the writer instills into it to shield or glorify himself. The chief fault of the man who sets out to write the story of his life is that he is less willing to be honest about himself than about anything else in the world. He admits this, but instead of conceding that his ego makes him a liar, insinuates with humble pride that he is modest.

Men set out on their voyage and in its course explore the bays and estuaries of life, ground on its shoals, are buffeted by its storms. Then, when port is in sight, they hide everything they have found in their adventuring. There are either miserly—or ashamed.

Even when they are inspired to write the tale of their voyage, this is usually a feeble imitation of a saga, instead of an elaboration, clarification and summation of the facts set down in the log book.

Consequently, for truth concerning human conduct and the operation of these formula we call life, one has to go back to the Bible, which, after thirty or forty centuries, still remains the greatest of human documents. It may be divine inspiration that makes the pages of the Old Testament vital today. Rather, we think, it is an absence of self-consciousness and this modern restriction men call modesty—which is not infrequently fear of the libel law.

When we become Czar we shall insist that each man who has left his mark upon his era shall be compelled to write a candid story of his own life, to be published, if he desires, posthumously. If this becomes a common custom of humanity, we might lose some of our present heroes, but we think that the heroes, now unknown, who would be raised to glory would more than compensate for the loss.

Out of such a mass of testimony and unvarnished accounts of experiences there would develop in time a sort of Bureau of Life Navigation, to which we mariners could refer for maps and advice and to which we could eventually report uncharted islands and unmarked reefs encountered on our own voyages.

There is still another unusual thing about Mr. Simmons's autobiography. He has evidently written it himself.

Training For The Future

BY S. E. KISER

Keep an eye on little Mary;
Joy may linger in her look
As she reads about a fairy
In some silly story book.
Make it part of your employment,
As the day is worried through,
To deprive her of enjoyment,
Or disaster may ensue.

Watch what little Tommy's doing;
If he's having harmless fun
Future trouble may be brewing—
Think of something you want done;
Call him from his pleasure; never
Let him linger at a game
Or he may be harmed forever,
Headed for a life of shame.

Children who are playing gladly
Should be set at tasks they hate;
Let them drop their playings sadly,
If they want things, make them wait,
Never mind their young resentment,
Scold them if they don't make haste;
Always keep them from contentment,
Let them have no time to waste.

If you happen to be paying
People who are serving you,
See that they are kept from playing
At the work they have to do;
Keep them always in their places,
Drive them steadily and hard;
Let no gladness light their faces,
Treat them with no kind regard.

Heaven, in case there is a heaven,
Surely is no place for fun;
Angels doubtless start at seven
To the daily work that's done.
Could they safely be permitted
To be doing as they please
After they have all been fitted
Here for ceaseless drudgeries?

You Will Do a Better Day's Work!

—and you will feel fitter and fresher all day—if you begin the day with Sanatogen.

In these days of keen competition, the man who "wins through" is the man who does a better day's work than his competitors.

When you come to analyse it, the quantity and quality of the work you do depends, to a large extent, on the amount of nerve-energy you possess. It is nerve-energy that enables you to make the most of your brains, and supplies the "driving power" essential to success.

Now, Sanatogen definitely increases nerve-energy—does not merely stimulate or excite, but increases it to a remarkable degree. The result is that when you take Sanatogen you do more and better work than you have been been accustomed to do. Nor is this a temporary effect; it continues day by day, week by week.

Dr. Claude L. Wheeler says:—

"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from langour, a gain of strength and activity, alertness of mind, and an increased resisting-power to diseases"

Begin by Taking Sanatogen Regularly Every Morning with or After Breakfast

This will enable you to acquire that extra nerve-energy which spells success in every business and profession; which gives you a zest and a delight in your work; which makes you keen and concentrated, alert and self confident, and thus gives you the power to realise your ambitions.

Take the first step today, not tomorrow—now not presently. Sanatogen can be obtained of all Chemists and Dispensaries.

Mrs. Clare Sheridan Lauds Attitude Of Turk Toward Women

(China Press Service)

New York, Jan. 20.—Mrs. Clare Sheridan, sculptress and writer, whose interview with Rudyard Kipling last summer, in which the poet commented on America's late entry in the world war caused a stir in political and social circles, both in America and England, has returned to New York accompanied by her 7-year-old son Richard.

Mrs. Sheridan reiterated her interview with Kipling, saying she thought too much had been made of the incident in the United States.

"Turkey is my spiritual home. The Turkish attitude toward women is wonderful," said Mrs. Sheridan, in telling of her travels.

"Of all men, I don't know of any race that has the finesse of the Turk," she said.

Mrs. Sheridan said she hoped to return to Europe in a few weeks. She came here to see her daughter Margaret, who is being educated in America, and who met her at the pier. Mrs. Sheridan wants to go back to Egypt. She wanted to know about Charlie Chaplin.

"Is he married yet?" she asked "You know Charlie was reported engaged to me. He is an intelligent man."

Scientists Plan To Explore Australia

(China Press Service)

Sydney, N. S. W., Jan. 28.—A vast area in Central Australia that has remained virtually a mystery land because of its inaccessibility, is to be penetrated by a group of British and American scientists, exploring under the auspices of the British-American Exploration Syndicate. Two of the explorers are C. W. Rogers of San Diego and Sergeant A. A. Waelly, who was with the 18th American Engineers in France.

The party intends to proceed inland through country inhabited by negro tribes, which are said to be hostile to white men. The explorers hope to conciliate the tribe members and to gain much valuable assistance from them.

It is estimated that the expedition will be away between eighteen months and two years.

Tokio Newspapers Support Japan's China Policy

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Feb. 11.—Commenting on the accusation by a portion of misguided politicians, who are considered to be prejudiced against the Government, that Japan's policy towards China is apt to be diffident and self-humiliating, both the Tokio and the Osaka "Asahi," in the course of their respective editorials today under the caption, "China's feeling towards Japan," severely criticise these bigoted politicians and further state in effect:

"The promotion of national interests of Japan should be effected by the enterprises of the people. It is no longer time when lasting interests should be expected by means of the exaction of rights and interests. Anyone who really has in view public interests of the nation should at any cost endeavor to make the new policy of the Government crown with perfection and display his liberal patriotic spirit of helping out the said policy by exercising constructive healthy consideration. Whoever condemn the policy of the Japanese Government of today towards China, are, to our regret, to be regarded as those, who have no knowledge in the least as to the popular sentiment in China. If one wishes to make what little contribution at all towards the policy of our country towards China, he shall, it is hoped, go a step further and do his best to catch the live popular sentiment of modern China."

Japan Considers Sending Envoy To The Vatican

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Feb. 11.—Apropos of the question of despatching an official envoy to the Vatican at Rome, Prince Saionji, an elder statesman, has of late, through Prince Konoye, notified Viscount Takahashi, President of the Seiyukai Party to the following effect:

"It has been my desire since the termination of the Versailles Conference to despatch a special envoy to the Pope. As a result of my consultation with Count Chinda, I have hoped since then that this cherished desire of mine will be accomplished. If I am not mistaken, however, I have heard that while the Government has drawn up estimates for the despatch of a messenger to Rome, the Seiyukai Party has a mind in opposition to the plan. Taken from the general situation in the world as well as from the national point of view, it is devotedly to be hoped that the Seiyukai Party will voluntarily decide to carry through this far-reaching scheme. I sincerely hope that you, as the President of the Seiyukai, will endeavor to put this question into effect with the support of all members of the Party."

Accordingly, Viscount Takahashi, with a view to deciding upon the attitude of the Seiyukai towards this question, is now conferring with great care with the leaders of the Party.

World Tariff Authorities Will Meet At Peking

(United Press)

Peking, Feb. 6.—Some of the world's foremost authorities on tariffs and financial matters are to represent the foreign powers at the special customs conference which is to meet in Peking this year and work out a further increase of 2½ percent in the Chinese customs tariff. Information has reached Peking that the Powers consider this conference fully as important in regard to Chinese welfare and the welfare of international business relations, as they did the Washington Conference.

Because of the type of men to be appointed, the governments are said to favor early autumn as the time for the meeting as it would be an imposition to ask these men to work through a sweltering summer.

Word has also reached Peking that Senator Oscar Underwood, close personal friend of President Harding, American delegate to the Washington Conference and a tariff authority of high standing will be asked to attend. Senator Underwood has made a deeper study of the Chinese customs than any other man in America, it is said.

Men of similar type are to be named by the other powers.

This conference is not to work hurriedly but thoroughly in an effort to untangle the whole financial mess into which China has worked herself. At the conclusion of this conference, the delegates are to formulate plans for a board of reference to which may be taken for adjustment questions arising in the application of the Conference treaties, particularly the clauses pertaining to the "Open Door."

The Chinese Government, in serious need of money, has asked that the conference be called at an early date. In fact she has the right to name the date and place but in as much as she is the one to benefit, she will heed the desires of the powers. Officials agree that it should be in Peking but the date cannot be set until the customs tariff and the revision of last summer to an effective percent, is ratified by all the signatory powers.

The conference is empowered to impose a surtax of 2½ percent on all imports and an additional tax on luxuries not exceeding 5 percent if this is advisable.

This however is subject to the abolition of likin.

The powers are said to be agreed in an informal way that since the likin is to be abolished, the whole financial situation in China must be reviewed. It is said that China will be asked to co-operate wholeheartedly and that if she does her serious financial difficulties will be at an end after the conference. If reunification is affected before the revision it will make the conference work far easier and more effective.

All loans, foreign and domestic, all obligations, the budgets of the various government departments and reports of provincial expenses and incomes, will be compiled and reviewed before the work of adjusting the surtax is commenced.

It is certain however that the surtax will not be applied before 1924.

BRAINS NUMBED BY OUR MORALS, SAYS DR. PITKIN

Defends Average Citizen; Finds Him Ethically Childish

(China Press Correspondence)

New York.—The Man-in-the-Street, also known as Mr. Average Citizen has found a defender in Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, associate professor of philosophy at Columbia University from the charge made rather generally of late that he is dumb.

Dr. Pitkin, speaking at Cooper Union, said the common man isn't stupid—only that his morals make him appear that way.

The professor derided the recent observations of his fellow intellectuals that the average of intelligence in the general population is deplorably low, and took exceptions to conclusions based on intelligence tests, which, he said, are incomplete and faulty. He even denied point blank that the human race is "a little brother to the ape."

"You have heard and read much lately about the low intelligence of the public," he said. "The view prevails widely in intellectual circles that the common people are quite stupid. That is a mistake.

MORALS CHILDISH

"Intelligent men have reasoned that because our present-day moral codes are childish, the people who accept them are childish. The real reason our present ethical standards are childish is because throughout history man's habits of thinking and behavior have been fixed in childhood and adolescence through no fault of his. The cause is chiefly that an overwhelming number of people in each generation are compelled to assume adult responsibilities before they are adults."

Several-Men-in-the-Street, who had dropped in for the lecture, looked obviously relieved at hearing this gallant defense and listened intently to the end of the professor's somewhat academic dissertation on "The Morals of Tomorrow."

The day is coming, he said, by way of prophecy, when individuals facing moral decisions will take them to scientific experts in office buildings for advice rather than to their priests or prophets in church studies. For, he asserted, science is to replace the church in prescribing the moral standards of tomorrow.

DEFECTS OF YOUTH

"First we must overthrow exciting indeas based on adolescent thinking," he said. "Current moral formulas have the defects of youthful minds, too great sensitiveness and too little analytical capacity.

"A tendency to simplify the world to dogma and formula is another characteristic. From Plato's time to this we have had a score of law givers who have set up standards of the 'one right way' to live and earn the approbation of contemporaries and escape hell fire. All have been proposed by childlike minds. They have set up, speaking generally and in turn, justice, love, conscience, the brotherhood of man and reliance on political forms as guides to morals. All are ineffective."

TWO WAYS FOR FUTURE

Two ways must be followed to establish proper moral standards in the future, the speaker asserted. The first is to extend the principle of moral education, so that teachers will control the life and not just inculate precepts of right living—a development of which may be the combination of school and family life. The second is to apply the theory of preventive medicine to morals, i.e., to utilise scientific techniques to avert damages to the fabric of human relationships.

"By long we will build up a resistance in the individual against harmful acts," he explained. "By the other we will remove the evil consequences, or at least minimise them. The second remedy will make what we now know as virtues unnecessary."

Thus, according to Dr. Pitkin, science is to be used to control human nature through the techniques of psychology and medicine, arrange physical environment through the techniques of engineering and agriculture and reform social relationships through the technique of economics.

Szechuen Women Demand Suffrage

(Independent News Service)

Chengtu, Szechuen, Feb. 8.—Chinese women here are launching a woman suffrage and reformation movement to fight for the right of women to elect and be elected to government posts, and among other things, free marriage, and the abolition of concubinage and prostitution. Almost all of the girl schools here have joined the movement, the headquarters being established in the Government Normal College for Women.

The suffragists have just perfected their organisation which consists of several committees. The Movement for Women's Rights, as they call it, will soon hold a city-wide demonstration.

The movement will probably start a daily newspaper for the purpose of promoting women's interests and as a propaganda organ for the movement. It is understood that the women have secured support from a certain politican now seeking to gain power in the politics of Szechuen Province.

MAY COMBINE BILLS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Feb. 12.—Senator Jones, the Chairman of the Commerce Committee, suggests joint consideration of the British debt and the Shipping Bill. It is understood that the Republican leaders have signified approval.
